Code of Ethics

Working as a volunteer is a generous act, but it is also a privilege, which entails certain responsibilities. While at the hospital, volunteers must adhere to the same Code of Ethics practiced by professional staff.

- 1. A volunteer represents the hospital while in uniform and should act in a manner commanding respect for himself/herself, the hospital and the medical staff.
- 2. All information regarding patients and their families is strictly confidential.
- 3. A volunteer will not use his association with the hospital to seek the free medical advice or favors for himself or others.
- 4. Should a volunteer observe anything that seems to be amiss in the hospital, he/she should direct any questions or opinions to the volunteer office 725-6075 (CCH) or 725-0465 (CMC), not to patients, friends, or associates.
- 5. A volunteer must make sure he/she understands instructions. If in doubt, he/she should ask for clarification before acting.

(Initial that you have read and agree to the above)
